BRUNEI 10.9.68 Sultan's Coronation 4c, 12c and 25c

It is unusual for reprints to be released of a Commemorative set and in consequence this makes these issues particularly interesting. The immediate obvious difference between the three reprint values and the originals, is the Sultan's face. Obviously in the period between printing and reprinting, he has been out in the sun as the shading is now a bronzed sepia brown in comparison to the red brown of the original. There are other minor shade differences as detailed below.

A	4c Original	Background dull blue grey. Tunic bluish slate
B	4c Reprint	Background blue grey Tunic greenish slate
A	12c Original	Background pale purple. Tunic bluish slate. Decorative filigree dull silver
B	12c Reprint	Background purple. Tunic greenish slate. Decorative filigree bright silver
A	25c Original	Background pale violet Tunic bluish slate
B	25c Reprint	Background slightly brighter violet. Tunic greenish slate

I have given the category 'B' to all three reprints because of the tremendous difference in shade of the Sultan's face. This to my mind is worth catalogue status.
